To whom it may concern,

Our investigation shows that none of LG Electronics' direct suppliers are among those associated with forced labor issue in China.

We are reiterating to suppliers that this activity is prohibited in our supply chain and that such violations of LG Supplier's Code of Conduct may result in immediate termination. Respect for human rights is a core commitment of LG Electronics, as a responsible corporate citizen.

Complementing our internal efforts, we're active in multi-stakeholder forums to help address these kinds of issues.

For example, LG Electronics is a member of the Responsible Business Alliance, which sets forth industry standards and accountability for a wide range of social, environmental and ethical topics, including resources to support companies' due diligence related to possible forced labor issues.
